Clauses 15 and 16 outline how to resolve any disputes and terminate these Terms, if necessary

14. DISPUTE RESOLUTION

- (a) If a dispute arises between the parties, the following procedure applies:
 - i) Either party may give the other a notice of the dispute. This means that the dispute must be dealt with in accordance with this section;
 - ii) Either party must not commence legal proceedings (except proceedings seeking interlocutory relief) about the dispute unless the dispute has been referred for resolution under this paragraph;
 - iii) Either party must not oppose any application for a stay of any legal proceedings that may be issued in respect of a dispute pending the completion or termination of the procedure set out in this paragraph;
 - iv) If a dispute is notified, the dispute must immediately be referred to the parties' respective senior management. Those representatives must endeavour to resolve the dispute as soon as possible, but at least within 30 days (or other period as agreed between the parties);

- v) At RWB's sole discretion, RWB may elect to resolve any dispute by mediation via the Australian Commercial Disputes Centre (ACDC) before commencing arbitration or litigation. The mediation must be conducted in accordance with the ACDC Guidelines for Commercial Mediation which operate at the time the matter is referred to ACDC. The ACDC Guidelines set out the procedures to be adopted, the process of selection of the mediator and the costs involved. This paragraph survives termination of these Terms;
- vi) The parties must continue to perform their respective obligations under these Terms, even if a dispute exists (including the referral of the dispute to mediation);
- vii) The parties must keep all information relating to any dispute confidential for the purposes of dispute resolution, unless otherwise required by law or at the direction of a court of competent jurisdiction.
